Americanization Course in English and Citizenship

For Teachers of Immigrants

Milwaukee, Wisconsin

University Extension Building, Oneida and Van Buren Streets

February 25 to May 8, 1919

Don D. Lescohier, Professor in Charge

This course is given to assist the state, and particularly the city of Milwaukee, to prepare teachers for the teaching of English and Citizenship to adults not familiar with the American language and American institutions. The course will be given at the University Extension Building, Milwaukee.

During the first two weeks, the entire class will meet as a unit. At the beginning of the third week the course will be divided into two sections: one on English for employed adults, men or women; and the other on English for women in the home.

Dr. Winthrop Talbot of New York, a man of national reputation in this field, will have charge of the section on English for Employed Adults; and Miss Lelia Bascom, teacher of English in the Extension Division of the University of Wisconsin, will have charge of the section on English for Women in the Home. Miss Bascom, in addition to her experience as a teacher of English in high schools and in the University, has taught English to foreigners and also has prepared the course in English used for non-English speaking sailors at the Great Lakes Training School.

Each week, on Thursday evening, the two sections will be assembled at the Extension Building for a joint session. One hour of the session will be occupied by Dr. Talbot, and the other hour by other speakers. Material and suggestions relative to the teaching of citizenship will be presented at these weekly sessions on Thursday evening.

An examination will terminate the course on May 13, and a certificate of the University Extension Division will then be given all who have satisfactorily completed the course. The fee for this course will be $10.

A course on Americanization will also be given in the summer session of the University at Madison this year. This course will consist of five lectures a week for six weeks, with afternoon conferences to thresh out practical problems of Americanization work. The summer course will be in charge of Associate Professor Don D. Lescossier.
